Foreword

Dear Prospective Partner,

The evaluation of fire-performance/fire-vulnerability of concretes and concrete structures is a highly topical issue for construction engineering. The continuous increase of fire-safety in construction and the concomitant emergence of innovative concretes (with specific resistance or environmental design performances) make necessary a continuous effort in assessing the capacity of concrete structures to withstand fire.

In this context, the international workshop Fire Spalling 2013 will be a forum for academia, industry, companies, consultants and governmental organizations to discuss research questions and practical applications related to fire induced spalling of concrete. This third edition of the workshop is co-organized by CSTB and INSA-Rennes with the support of fib and RILEM. It will gather more than 100 cutting-edge selected participants from the international technical/scientific community. More information are presented on the web site www.FireSpalling2013.fr.

Fire Spalling 2013 sponsorship will provide you access to an international group prominent in the field and may represent a major chance to promote your state-of-the-art products and services. Furthermore, supporting Fire Spalling 2013 will give you access to unparalleled opportunities of hearing speakers at the leading-edge, appraise new trends in the field, networking with delegates from the public and private sectors and eventually improve your existing relationships with key clients.

Fire Spalling 2013 Partnership Guide describes some examples of sponsorship, advertising and exhibit opportunities available for your organization to associate your name to our commitment. The organizers are at your disposal for any additional partnership proposal you may consider as well as for any further inquiries.

We look forward to meeting you in Paris in September 2013!

On behalf of the organization committee

Pierre PIMIENTA – Chairman

Fekri MEFTAH – Cochairman
